Adjustable Shelf Strips

Used in retail environments to enhance product visibility and organization on store shelves. It fits into shelving units, allowing retailers to adjust shelf heights and product placement as needed.

Cubes/ Tri Standee

Three-dimensional promotional displays used for marketing and branding purposes. They are typically cube-shaped structures.

Parasite Units

These refer to small, secondary display units that attach to existing store fixtures, such as shelves, racks, or main displays. They are designed to 'cling' to or 'parasite' onto a primary structure to maximize product visibility without taking up additional floor space.

Photo Frames

These frames are used to display advertisements, branding, product information, or promotional messages while also serving as decorative elements.

Promo Table

Used for marketing, promotions, and product demonstrations at events, retail locations, or trade shows. Easy to setup with custom graphics printed on the front and sides.

Display Boards/ Exhibition Panels

These boards are commonly used in public places, businesses, events, and transportation hubs to attract attention and communicate messages to a target audience.

Cut Out Standee

An image or design that is cut to shape and mounted on a stand for support. These are commonly used for promotional purposes, events, retail displays, or as decorative props.

Danglers

It hangs from ceilings, shelves, or other fixtures in a store or promotional space. It is designed to catch the attention of customers by 'dangling' in their line of sight, often using bright colors, bold fonts, and eye-catching designs.
